SENIOR CLINICAL

Therapeutic play.

The endless paper work.

The making of a father.

Down the hatch!

A little of this, and a little of that.

Ah . . . one and a two.

The joys of Peds.

IV's - the bane of nursing.

IPR or CPR?

Why can't doctors learn to write?

Your mission girls: ambulation!

Let's see - 120/80 or 180/100?

Take it, or I'll breathe on you!

Bah humbug!

More chicken scratch?

The tender touch.

Preparing for the big quiz.

Comforting

Where are those bowel sounds?

Charting astute observations - No Patients!

Checking for drainage, Constant Assessment.

The team pulls together!

I think it's attached to the oxygen?

How to regulate, that is the question.

TLC for an FTT.

This bed sounds clear to A&P.

One hit off this brings instant relief.

I assess this to be a foot.

Vee have ways of making you talk.

He said . . . then I said . . . and we . . .

Now sir, about your HANDWRITING?

15gtts = 1cc = 60 min. \times 8h. . . . oh, darn!

Bonzai!

Now, take a deep breath.

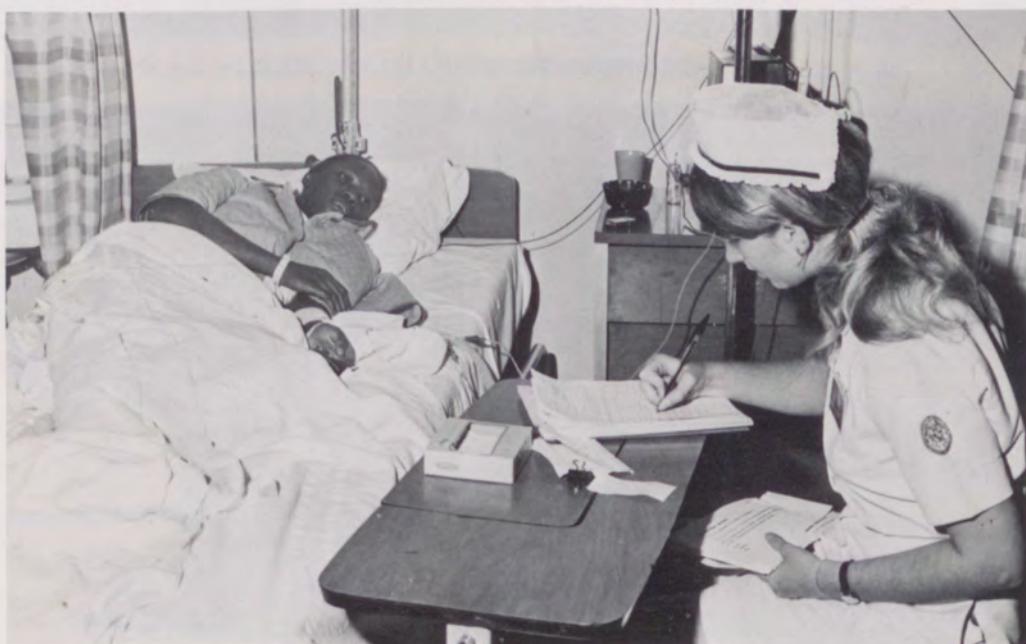

A time for every person.

Men in nursing - the new image.

Now girls - another petition.

Name, Rank and Serial Number - please.

Is that Digoxin or Dilantin? Let's flip.

Another day, another care plan. . . . Oh my . . .

Health Teaching

Nursing rounds.

Let's see, the patient in 406 looks like he needs an isolation setup.

I wish I were in Denver Developing.

Will the pills never end?

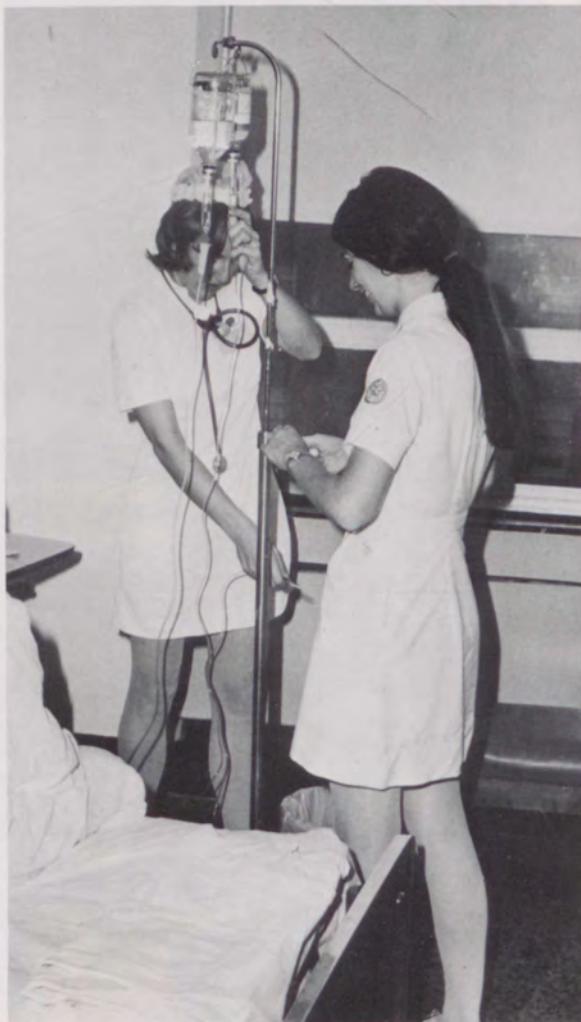

Can I catch a ride to the hopper?

It melts in your mouth, not in your hand.

For every piece of equipment, there is a technique.

I know what I'm doing, I think!

Comforting the sick child.

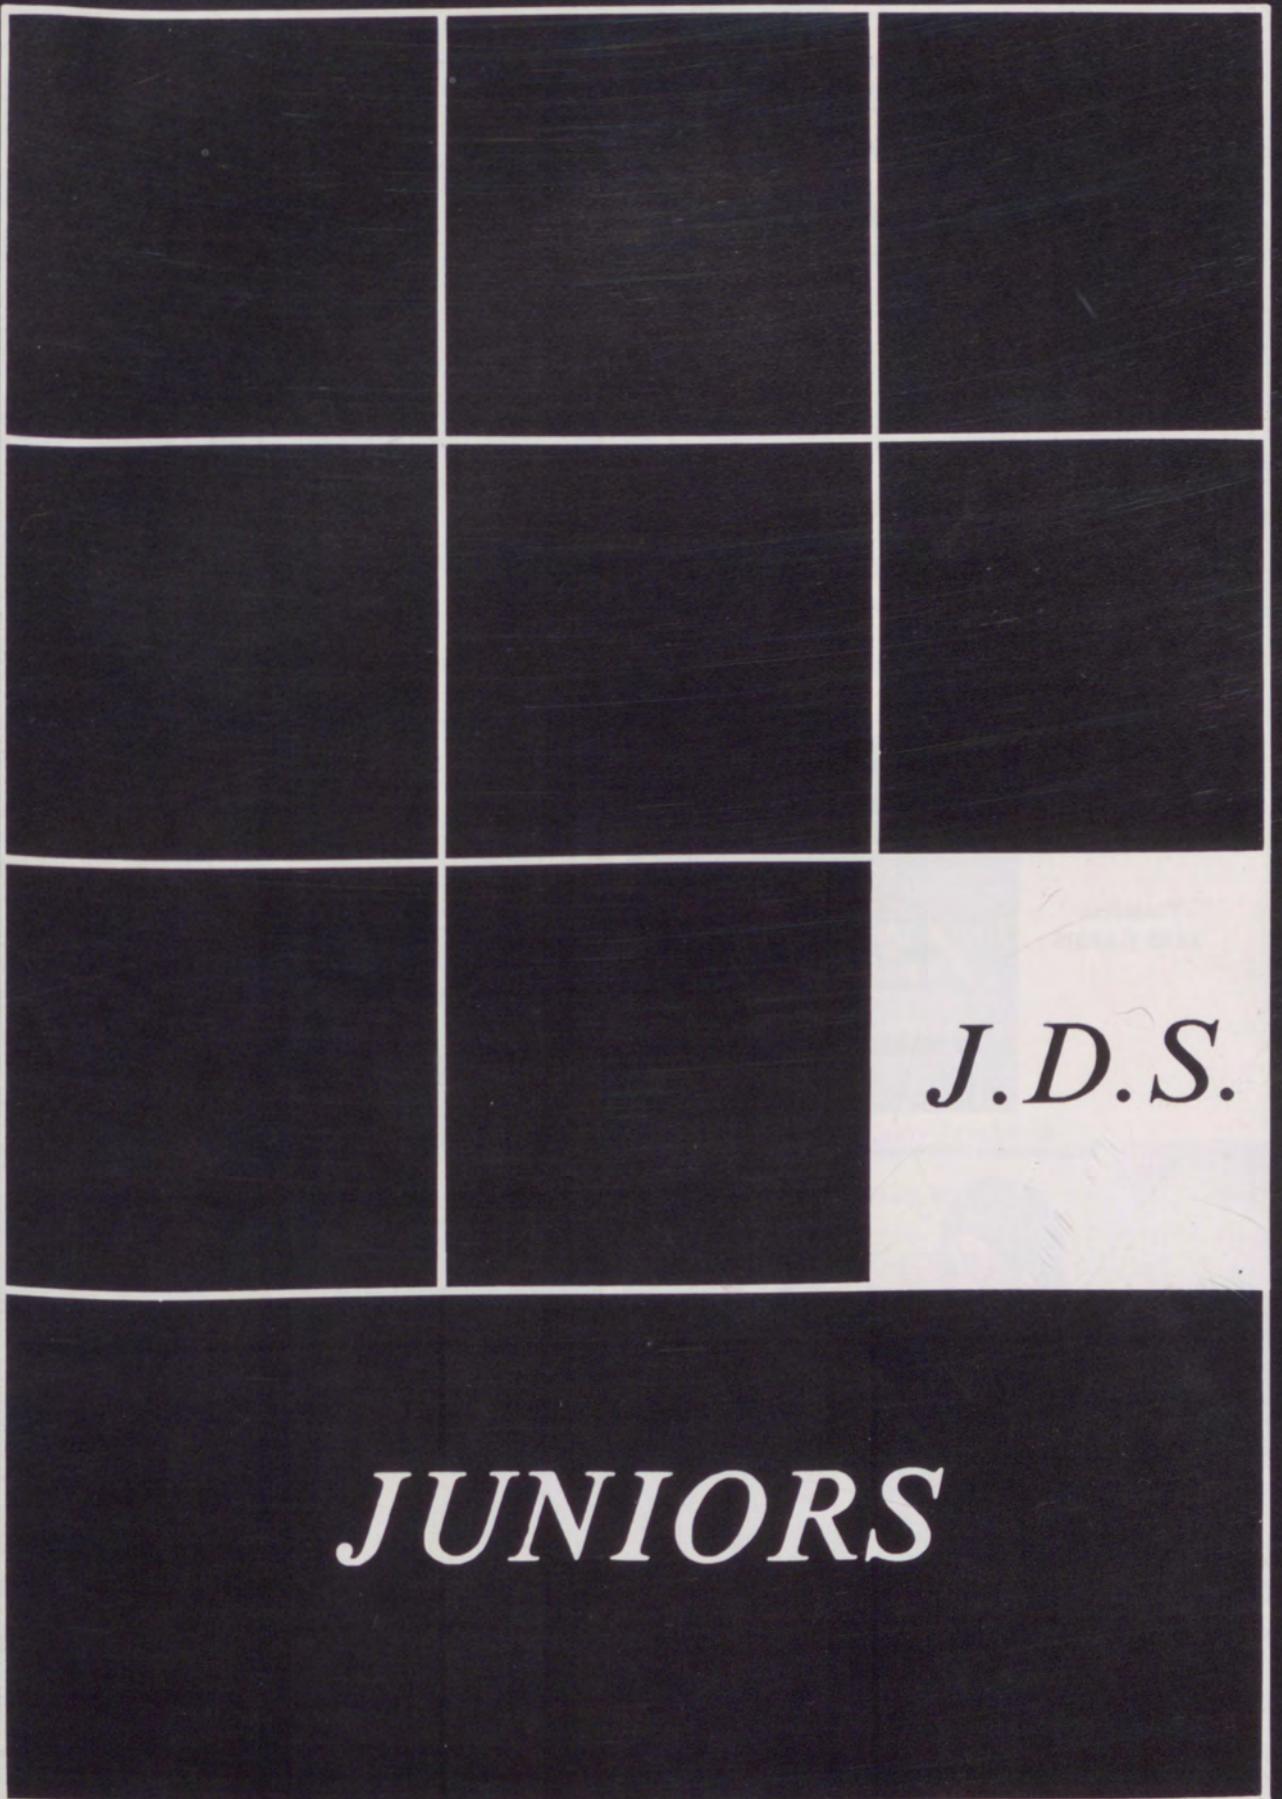

I'm picking up Jethro Tull on these "earphones."

Come out, wherever you are!

Through the paths of life we wander
Different goals within pursuit

Some paths seem long,
never ending
Some seem to bear no fruit

So we stand as one united
In the crossroads of commitment
Easing bumps upon the pathways that we pass from day to day.

Our answer is the world's hope: it is to rely on youth - not a time of life but a state of mind, a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a predominance of courage over truth, of the appetite for adventure over the love of ease.

A stylized black and white illustration of two figures, possibly a man and a woman, wearing traditional Chinese hats and face paint. They are positioned under a simple, dark canopy. Below the figures, the text 'MANCHU, JR.' is written in a large, bold, blocky font. Underneath that, in a smaller font, is 'CHINESE CAFETERIA & CARRY-OUT'. The address '420 W. BALTIMORE ST.' is to the left, and '411 W. LEXINGTON ST.' is to the right. The phone number '685-8686' is on the left, and '539-0723' is on the right. The entire advertisement is contained within a rectangular border.

"Are you willing to see that your fellow men are just as real as you are and try to look beyond their faces into their hearts hungry for joy? Are you willing to admit that probably the only reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to put into it?"

The University of Maryland nursing cap is among the oldest in the world. It was designed by Florence Nightingale for those nurses who graduated from St. Thomas' Nursing School in England. One of those graduates, Louisa Parsons, opened the University of Maryland School of Nursing and Ms. Nightingale sent her the pattern for the cap and asked her to give one to each future graduate of the school.

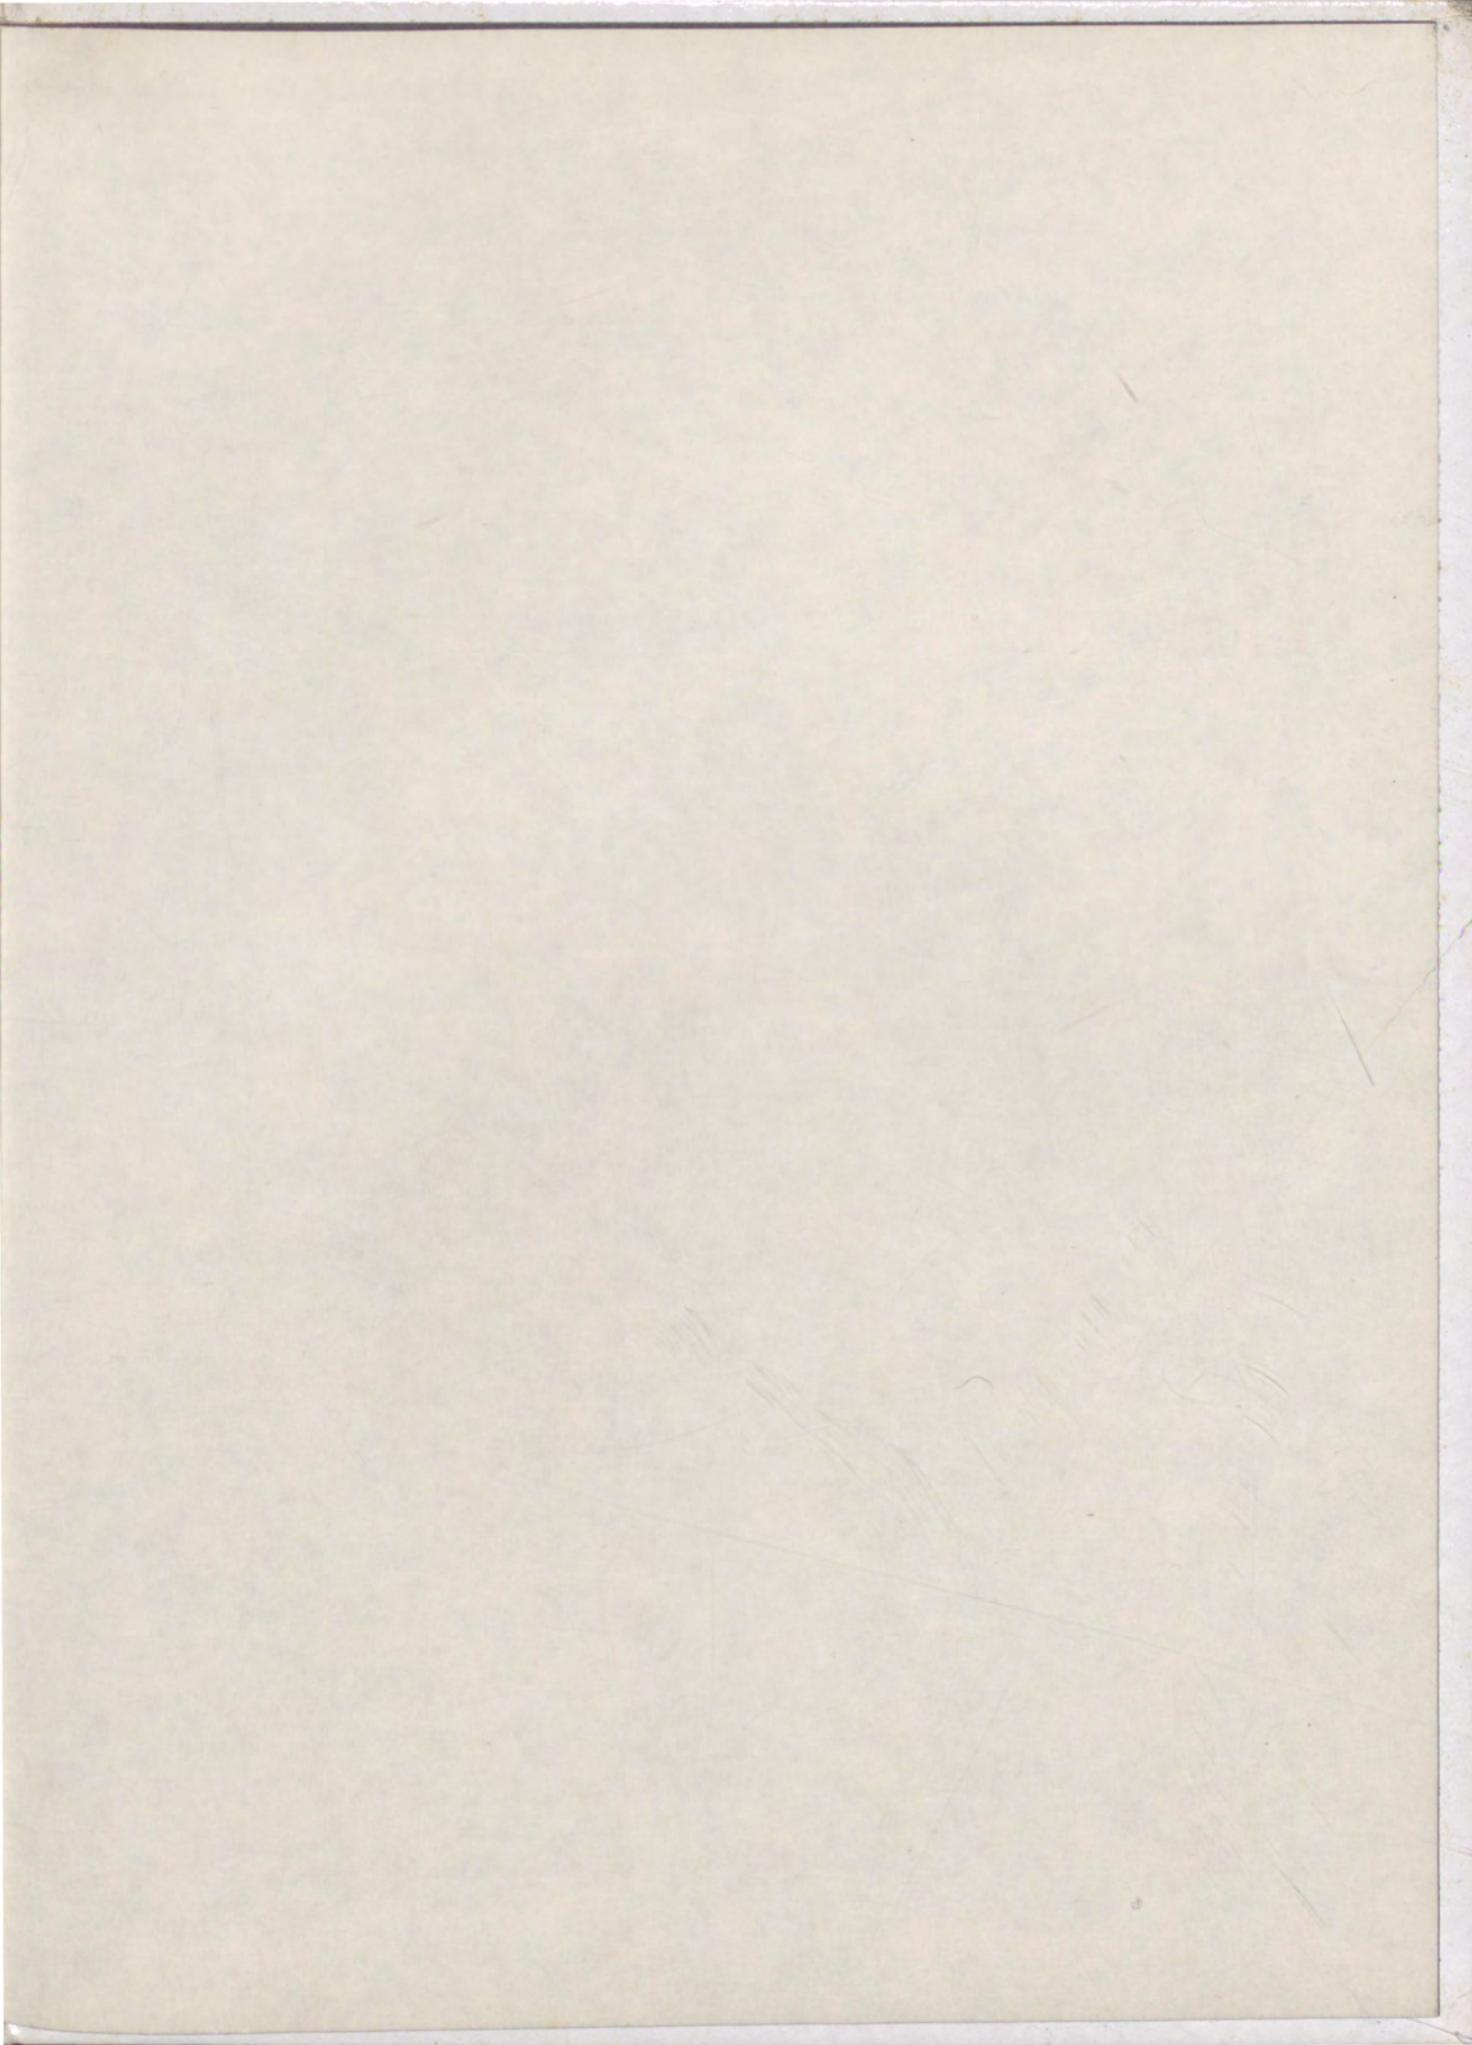

The original cap was made of one row of point d'esprit lace which was gathered together and fluted. There was a skirt of lace at the nape of the neck and the cap was tied under the chin like a bonnet. The cap we receive has been modernized. The chin ties are gone and several rows of fluted lace have been added. Also each cap now has the nurse's initials embossed on the crown.

Until recently each nurse had to wash, starch and flute her own cap. This was a very tedious chore and took hours. The cap first had to be boiled until all the old starch was out. When it was dry, it was restarched. The fluting was done with a two pronged fork called a fluting iron. This iron was heated pioneer style over an alcohol burner until it was the right temperature, and then used to shape the flutes one at a time. The fingertip test was used to help regulate temperature. If the iron was too hot, the starch burned, your cap was scorched and you started over again. Maybe this is why nurses are supposed to have patience. Oh yes, the caps are not done until each flute is strung together, a job each of us must still perform for ourselves at our cap stringing ceremony.

The University of Maryland pin was designed by Tiffany's of New York for the class of 1894, and chosen as the pin of the Alumnae Association when it was chartered in 1903. Each alumnus was eligible to purchase the pin - for less than $5.00. The pin consists of a St. George's cross in the colors of the University of Maryland - black, gold, and maroon. St. George is the patron saint of England. His cross was used in recognition of our English heritage. In the center of the cross is the Greek medical caduceus - a serpent, the symbol of wisdom presiding over decoctions of medicine.

In 1970 the pin was presented to the school of Nursing by the Alumnae Association and is now the official ensignia of our school.
